Neeta is a careless girl. She does not keep her things at their proper places. Her mother is worried about her carelessness. One day, Neeta's friend Mala comes to her house.

How are you Mala?

I am fine, thank you. What about you?

I am also fine.

I came here to take my storybook back which I had given to you last week.

After searching everywhere....

I don't remember where I have kept it. Probably it was here on the table. No no, I think it was there in the cupboard.

You should keep the things at their proper places. Should I help you?

Yes,
please.

Mala and Neeta begin to keep the things at their proper places. While they are arranging the things, Mala finds her storybook in the cupboard. Meanwhile Neeta's mother enters the room.

Maa, see
my room!

Oh good!
Where is your
blue bag?

It is here on the table.

Where is your
blue frock?

It is there in
the cupboard.

Where are your black shoes?

They are here in the shoe rack.

Very good! Neeta, you should keep small things here on the table and big things
there in the cupboard.
